At the foot of the Two Towers, turn right. Immediately on the corner of Piazza Mercanzia you'll find a building erected in 1917. Come right in: the historical lift will take you up to the fourth (top) floor. Cà Fosca welcomes you with a beautiful stucco rose ceiling, colourful stained glass art deco doors, suffused with soft turquoise light from the veranda. There you'll be served appetizers or aromatic teas and tasty homemade cakes. Seated under the veranda in the rooftop garden, you'll take in some of Bologna's best-known landmarks, the two towers, its medieval battlements, the green copper domes of Saint Petronio church and Re Enzo Palais, as well as the hills just beyond, all at a glance. Relax after your trip, your workday or sightseeing adventure by munching on hors d'oeuvres and a refreshing drink.

While you relax, we will be glad to locate a restaurant or make reservations for you at a club or show.

AMENITIES NEARBY ATTRACTION

Are you in Bologna for tourism, work or study?

If you arrive by car, drop off your luggage here first, then park your car at a conveniently located garage. It is as simple as that.

At Cà Fosca, you are in the heart of the old city, which developed and grew around the University grounds. You may walk to Piazza Mercanzia (which will reveal its history to you) or down the street and through the Clavature Market to Piazza Maggiore. From there a bus or a taxi will take you to your destination (convention centre, railway station, parks or Fair quarter). If you walk past Via Rizzoli, you will find yourself in the old Jewish ghetto, just beyond the university. Walking through Santo Stefano and Corte Isolani, down Strada Maggiore you will reach the Department of Economy of the University of Bologna and the Academy of Music. If you don't feel like walking, Cà Fosca has bicycles and scooters which you are welcome to use. At Cà Fosca you may consult online for local museum exhibitions or find information for your evening outing. If you are travelling with your family, the little ones will find toys, cartoons, a scooter, a baby-sitter, and a safe and secure rooftop garden where they can play.
